Mamma Mia - THE BAND

MUSIC STUDENTS

MS ROBYN GRIFFIN

Mamma Mia the musical rehearsals have started. There is singing. There is dancing. There is acting. BUT (insert dramatic pause) they need a band. If you play guitar, piano/keyboard, bass, percussion or drum kit you could be a part of this year's production.

Put your name down on the list in the Music Office (next to the meerkat), take the audition music, practise the music and be prepared to play THIS Friday after school in the Green Room.

Take a chance to be a part of the show.

Ms Griffin & Mr Sealey

Hot Chocolate and Coffee

How to help your kids with homework (without doing it for them)

January 24, 2020 6:01am AEDT

There's a delicate balance between helping, and over-helping. from shutterstock.com

Parents are a child's first and most important teachers. Parent involvement in their child's learning can help improve how well they do in school. However, when it comes to helping kids with homework, it's not so simple.

While it's important to show support and model learning behaviour, there is a limit to how much help you can give without robbing your child of the opportunity to learn for themselves.
